

As a Direct Service Worker in Ohio, we need your help!

Who? You. We are inviting workers with at least one year of experience in providing direct services to persons in need of assistance in homes, communities, or nursing facilities. We need 150-200 Direct Service Workers (DSW)—a provider of personal assistance services or supports to an individual needing assistance in order to participate in activities of daily life. Direct service jobs include Home Health Aide, Direct Support Professional (DSP), and State-Tested Nurse Aide (STNA).

What? You will answer three sets of multiple choice questions on a computer and will also be asked to demonstrate five random skill tasks by actually performing them for/in front of a test observer.

Test sessions will consist of taking three sets of multiple choice questions, about 100 at a time, with a rest break between sessions plus the skill demonstration of five tasks. You will be asked about your reaction to taking the test upon completion of the four sessions. Overall, you could be at the test event for up to seven hours.

Why? We are trying out multiple choice questions and skills tasks that measure knowledge related to direct service work in order to create a new test. This new test is a strategy of the Ohio DSW initiative to cultivate a highly-trained and flexible direct service workforce and assure that Ohio is prepared to meet the growing demand for affordable, high quality long-term services.

When and Where? You can participate between February 5, 2014 and May 1, 2014. Testing will be done at D&S Diversified Technologies test sites at several locations in Ohio for your convenience.

How? If you currently qualify as a DSW, call 877-851-2355 to be scheduled into the next available test event in your area.

How Much? If you complete all sessions of the test event, we will send you a check for $125. This reimbursement is available to the first 200 participants.
